

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A semiconductor memory device according to an aspect of the present invention includes memory cells each having a data storage section which stores data and a transfer gate
5 section which has a MOSFET of a first conductive type for writing the data to the data storage section and reading the data from the data storage section, wherein a potential corresponding to the data stored in the data storage section is applied as a substrate bias of the MOSFET.